

Weekend in Paris

COMPLETE THE DIALOGUE WITH THE PAST SIMPLE OF THE VERBS IN BRACKETS.

Mark: Hey, Steve! _____ (you and Jane/go) to Paris last weekend?

Steve: Well, I did, but Jane _____ (not come) with me.

Mark: Why? _____ (she/be) ill?

Steve: No, no. She _____ (have) a lot of work at the office, so she _____ (stay) behind.

Mark: And who _____ (you/go) with then?

Steve: I _____ (go) with my brother. You see. I _____ (not can) think of anyone else to ask. I _____ (ask) him on Thursday and he _____ (say) yes!

Mark: Hmmm... so _____ (you/enjoy) your holiday?

Steve: Yes, everything _____ (be) fine and I _____ (laugh) a lot, too.

Mark: What do you mean?

Steve: Well, Jack _____ (want) to speak to everyone in French. He _____ (greet) people in French and also...

Mark: Can he speak French?

Steve: Only a little. Anyway, on Sunday we _____ (go) to a restaurant and he _____ (speak) to the waiter in French. We _____ (want) chicken, but in the end the waiter _____ (bring) us fish!

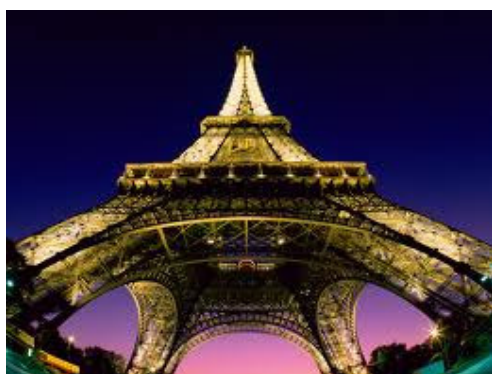

Mark: And _____ (be) that a problem?

Steve: Yes. Jack _____ (not eat) anything. You see, he is allergic to fish.

Weekend in Paris

(key)

COMPLETE THE DIALOGUE WITH THE PAST SIMPLE OF THE VERBS IN BRACKETS.

Mark: Hey, Steve! Did you and Jane to Paris last weekend?

Steve: Well, I did, but Jane didn't come with me.

Mark: Why? Was ill?

Steve: No, no. She had a lot of work at the office, so she stayed behind.

Mark: And who did you go with then?

Steve: I went with my brother. You see. I couldn't think of anyone else to ask. I asked him on Thursday and he said yes!

Mark: Hmmm... so did you enjoy your holiday?

Steve: Yes, everything was fine and I laughed a lot, too.

Mark: What do you mean?

Steve: Well, Jack wanted to speak to everyone in French. He greeted people in French and also...

Mark: Can he speak French?

Steve: Only a little. Anyway, on Sunday we went to a restaurant and he spoke to the waiter in French. We wanted chicken, but in the end the waiter brought us fish!

Mark: And was that a problem?

Steve: Yes. Jack didn't eat anything. You see, he is allergic to fish.